York. This development has had added

York This development has had added influence by reason of the notice by the Secretary of the Treasury of a call in ten days for the payment of 20 per cent of Government deposits in national banks to provide for the Panama canal payment. The extraordinary figure at which New York bank losus now stand, and the promise of additional large requirements for railroad and corporation purposes prompt a conservative use of credits for speculative uses.

Bonds have turned heavy on a diminished volume of business. United States 2s, 3s coupon and the old 4s have declined 14 per cent on call during the week.

Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—A storm of liquidation broke over the grain pits today, in spite of the critical situation in the Orient Sharp losses were sustained in all cereals. The market was unable to rally and closing prices were near the low point, May wheat being off ite from last night's close. May corn closed 1½c lower, while oats were down 29/2½c. Provisions were practically unchanged. Strongth and activity marked initial trading in wheat. That the war outlook is of a most serious nature was evidenced by a decline in the price of English consols.

Shorts were active buyers at the start and bid up the price of the May option $2.6%c above yesterday's close, the opening quotations being at $55.63%2c. July was a shade to $6.6%c higher, at $66.6%2c. But these prices lasted only a moment. There was such quantity of wheat for sale—both May and July deliveries—that within five minutes the price of May had fallen to $45.c and July to $5%c. The selling craze was soon partly exhausted.

On support from the leading long the market quickly recovered part of the early loss. May rallied to $4%c and July to 8%c. Trading was comparatively quiet during the remainder of the day until within the last half-hour. Commission houses continued to sell on all slight rallies, while small holders seized every opportunity to secure profits. In the face of fresh war rumors the pit was deluged with solling orders late in the day. There was not enough demand to absorb the offerings, and in consequence May broke to $2%c, while the price of July was carried down to $4%c. The close was extremely weak, with May at $4c. a net less for the day of it. July was 181%c lower, at $4%c.

NO MEAT TRUST HERE

Congressional Investigation

Basis of Eastern Complaint Does Not Apply.

Difference of Price on Hoof and at Retail About the Same. However.

Beef is strong on the local market and there is a prospect of another slight raise in prices during the week. The cause is said to be the increased cost of hay and corn, an advance in the prices of those products being usual at this season of the year.

Local butchers claim that the contemplated Congressional investigation of the meat trust, which, it is alleged, is maintaining a too great range between the price paid for live stock and the prices of meat to the retailer, can hardly affect this section; for the reason that the trust does not control the meat business here as it does in the East. It is a well-known fact that in practically all of the country east of the Rocky mountains the meat trust has absolute control of the business, both wholesale and retail. The big packing houses do all of the killing, the dressed meats being shipped in refrigerator cars to various distributing points and thence to the retail market. Any retail dealer who attempts to do his own killing is promptly run out of business, if he can't be shown that it is to his interest to deal with the trust.

West of the Reckies the trust has not gained this control of the business. The larger firms in Salt Lake buy stock on the hoof, do their own butchering and dispose of the meat at both wholesale and retail. They are also brought into competition, in the winter season, with farmers who kill their own beeves, porkers and muttons and peddle the meat direct to the consumers. With all this competition, however, it seems to be a fact that the range between the prices of live stock and the retail prices of meats is almost, if not quite, as great of meats is almost, if not quilte, as great as it is in Chicago, the home of the trust. Yet local butchers claim that they are making only a fair profit, and in many cases hardly that. Granting this to be true, it would appear that the trust problem must be a difficult one to solve. The beef trust, doing business on the gigantic scale that it does must of course be making a great deal more money in proportion than do our butchers and dealers, and it should be butchers and dealers, and it should be selling meats much cheaper, but in this instance it cannot be shown that competition makes lower prices to the con-

The showing upon which Secretary Wilson of the Agricultural department has made his representations to Con-gress against the meat trust is that beef on the hoof brings $2 to $2 less beef on the hoof brings $2 to $2 less now than it did eighteen months to two years ago, while choice steaks retail at practically the same prices, viz., from 23 to 25 cents a pound. In Salt Lake live beeves bing almost as high a price as they have at any time in the last two years, while the prices of choice steaks are also about the same, or from 20 to 25 cents. To this extent the situation shows well for the comthe situation shows well for the com-petitive system in vogue here—our dealers are making no greater profits market, came to naught again today, when a sensational break in Liverpool, very threatening news from the far East, heavy estimates and a bearish visible supply statement rendered the local bears more confident than ever.

The new York market opened weak at a loss of 445% points, which had been increased to 5256 points on active months before the call was completed, with March selling as low as 12.88c; May, 14.05c, and July at 14.03c.

Following this there was extensive covering, and prices railled a few points from the bottom, but every trifling bulge brought out fresh pressure, and the market ruled feverish and irregular.

The New Orleans market opened at a decline of 2052 points, and there was little sign of New Orleans buying in the local market. Trading after the call was only moderately active, later New Orleans became firmer and a covering movement set in here, and that in connection with local and Southern bull support, railled the market from 20 to 49 points. The advance met very heavy selling, chiefly from outside sources, and in the late trading the market was very weak, being finally easy at a net decline of 495% points.

Closing prices were practically the lowest, with July quoted at 12.99c. Sales were estimated at 20,000 bales. estimated at 200,000 bales.
